Website for Studentersamfundet at Aalborg University.

About this project

During my time as a volunteer at Studentersamfundet I participated in the design and implementation of the website which can be seen at: https://studentersamfundet.aau.dk/

My role

I was designing and implementing the website together with three other volunteers.

Designing the site

The website was built with a drag-and-drop plugin for Wordpress, making the implementation of the website almost code free. However, when some elements would not show as intended from the plugin, I would change the style manually with CSS.

My main responsible beside setting up the style was to implement the "om os" page.

During the implementation phase I collaborated with the management board, who approve the setup of the page.
